

Funeral Director/Embalmer License Application

Applications, college transcripts, verification forms from other states, and National Board exam scores, as applicable to each candidate, should be submitted at the earliest possible date.

Applicants must be at least 18 years of age.

Funeral director

An applicant for a license must have either:

- obtained an Associate of Arts Degree in Mortuary Science or
- have completed a course of instruction of not less than two years in an accredited college. This course of instruction must consist of 60 semester or 90 quarter hours of instruction at a school, college, or university accredited by the Northwest Association of Schools and Colleges or other accredited association approved by the Board, with a minimum 2.0 grade point, or a grade of C or better, in each of the following subjects:
 - one course each in psychology and mathematics
 - two courses in English composition
 - two courses in social science
 - three courses selected from any of the following subjects: behavioral sciences, public speaking, counseling, business administration and management, computer science, and first aid

Credits may be earned at more than one college to satisfy the total number required.

Some mortuary schools may issue a diploma or certificate but not an Associate's Degree because their curriculum does not equal 60 semester or 90 quarter hours. Graduates of such mortuary schools need to be aware that their diploma or certificate alone does not fulfill Washington State's requirement for 60 semester or 90 quarter hours of college.

The requirement for classes in certain subjects does not apply to applicants licensed more than five years in another state.

Embalmer

An applicant for a license must have either:

- an Associate of Arts Degree in Mortuary Science or
- completed a course of instruction in an accredited mortuary science college program and have other college courses that, together, total 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours

Out-of-state applicants

The Board may recognize licenses issued to funeral directors or embalmers from other states if the applicant's qualifications are comparable to those required of in-state applicants. The Board may issue a funeral director or embalmer license upon: verification of the other state's licenses, payment of the application fee, and successful completion of the Washington State Law, Rules, and Regulations Examination. Five years active experience as a licensee may be accepted to make up a deficit in the comparable education requirements.

Applicants with at least five years of active licensed experience in another state are not required to provide college transcripts or National Board scores. However, written verification of licensure from the state boards of the states where they are licensed must be provided, and their experience listed on page 2 of the application. Out-of-state applicants with less than five years active licensed experience will be required to meet our educational requirements (except for the specific course requirements) and provide college transcripts, National Board scores, and verification of licensure.

Internship

Internship funeral directors must complete one year of intern training (consisting of at least 1800 hours of employment) under the supervision of a licensed funeral director in Washington State. The training must include assisting a licensed funeral director in coordinating all aspects of at least 25 arrangements for funeral, memorial, and/or final disposition services for human remains.

Internship embalmers must complete two years of intern training (consisting of at least 3600 hours of employment and the embalming of at least 50 human remains) under the supervision of a licensed embalmer in Washington State.

An applicant may take the examinations before completing the intern training; however, on passing the examinations, the license will not be issued until we receive certification of completion of intern training.

Out-of-state

Internships served in other states may be accepted by the Department if the intern was registered with that state board and the training is documented by the supervising licensed funeral director/embalmer. Embalmer applicants who have less than two years of combined intern and licensed time will be required to serve a period of internship to make up the difference to a total of two years.

Examinations

All applicants are required to take the Washington State Law, Rules, and Regulations Examination.

- Applicants for the funeral director license will take the Funeral Arts Examination.
- Applicants for the embalmer license will take the Funeral Sciences Examination.

Applicants will not be required to take the arts and/or sciences sections if they have successfully completed the National Board examinations with average scores of 75% or better in each section, or another state's arts and/or sciences examinations.

Examinations are administered by the International Conference of Funeral Service Examining Boards (The Conference) at Pearson Professional Testing Centers. The Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers will evaluate applications for candidate eligibility. Once approved, the Board will send appropriate notification to the examination candidate and The Conference. The fees associated with the actual examinations will be paid directly to The Conference. Go to www.theconferenceonline.org for additional information.

Application fees

Funeral director: $100
Embalmer: $100

Applicants must submit:

- a completed application form, with signed attestation. Your Social Security number is now required by state law.
- the application fee. Make your check payable to the Washington State Treasurer.
- official transcripts from mortuary school, colleges, universities. Photocopies are not acceptable.
- official copy of National Board scores (if applicable) sent directly from the National Board.
- verification forms from the state board of each state where you have been licensed, with state exam scores if possible.

AIDS training

The requirement for licensure, renewal, or the reinstatement of any license on lapsed or disciplinary status must include completion of AIDS education and training consisting of a minimum of four (4.0) clock hours. The course must also include training in prevention, transmission, and treatment of AIDS. AIDS education received at a mortuary school meets this requirement. New licensees and interns who have not completed mortuary school since 1987 will have two years from the date of licensing to complete the AIDS education requirement. Your signature on an affidavit provided by the Department is acceptable proof of completion. Recent AIDS training may be credited toward the requirement of ten hours of continuing education every two years.

General information

It is recommended that you submit applications and fees as early as possible so that we can review them and notify you of any deficiencies. If you are not sure you have enough college credits, or the right courses, you may make photocopies of your transcripts and send them to us with a note asking that we review the transcripts for completeness.
